

Language Centre offer with ECTS for students

Courses for general and academic purposes

General Language courses train language skills for general purposes and are designed for beginner levels only (A1, A2). Academic Language courses are designed for academic purposes in order to serve the needs of students studying at the University of Luxembourg, e.g. reading and writing academic texts, listening to university lectures, and engaging in seminar conversation. Priority is given to study programs integrating the courses into their study programs. Depending on the needs of the study program, a number of places will be reserved.

Evening classes usually start at 4.45 or 5.30 pm on Belval campus and run throughout the semester. Each course gains 3 ECTS

Français général A1.1 (hiver), A1.2 (été)
Français général A2.1 (hiver), A2.1 (été)
Français académique B1.1 (hiver), B1.2 (été)
Français académique B2.1 (hiver), B2.2 (été)
Français académique C1.1 (hiver), C1.2 (été)
Perfectionner son expression en français (hiver et été)

Deutsch allgemein A1.1 (Winter), A1.2 (Sommer)
Deutsch allgemein A2.1 (Winter), A2.2 (Sommer)
Deutsch wissenschaftlich B1.1 (Winter), B1.2 (Sommer)
Deutsch wissenschaftlich B2.1 (Winter), B2.2 (Sommer)
Deutsch wissenschaftlich C1.1 (Winter), C1.2 (Sommer)

Academic English¹ B2.1 (winter), B2.2 (summer)
Academic English C1.1 (winter), C1.2 (summer)

Tailor-made courses discipline specific

We design discipline-specific language courses in cooperation with study programs. These courses are designed to increase academic language skills of students within a specific discipline, which allows us to integrate discipline-specific vocabulary and genres. We also design bi- or trilingual courses to train more than one language at once in order to support multilingual study programs (e.g. trilingual presentation skills, bilingual writing support). The courses start from intermediate language levels (B1 and B2). ECTS can be allocated according to the needs of the study program.

Peer tutor program

The Language Centre offers training for students in language learning and academic writing in French, German, and English. This training leads to a certificate from the Language Centre and equips students to advise fellow students on language learning, presentations, and writing academic papers. The training is offered each summer semester and allocates 3 ECTS for Bachelor and 5 ECTS for Master students. Some study programs integrate the peer tutor training in order to hire trained tutors as student assistants to support fellow students within their discipline.

¹English classes start at level B2 as there is very little demand for lower levels at the University of Luxembourg.

Language Centre offer without ECTS for students

1. Language Cafés for English, French, or German

The language café is a conversational practice session that gives learners the opportunity to practice their speaking and listening skills with fellow students in a laidback atmosphere.

When: Weekly throughout the semester for 90 min

Where: Belval Campus or online

Registration: via Moodle - Language Centre

2. One-to-one consultations for academic writing and presentations

Students can book consultations in order to get advice from trained peer tutors on assignment writing or oral presentations. This service is offered for English, French and German.

When: Flexible by appointment or tutor in the box once a week at the Learning Centre

Where: Belval campus, Learning Centre, or online

3. Language events

Language events are a great opportunity to practice language skills in a fun and enjoyable way.

Speak Dating

This event is usually organized twice per semester and is aimed at finding a language tandem partner. In a language tandem partnership, one offers her own language skills and in exchange get the chance to learn the language the tandem partner speaks.

Quiz Night

This is a special event in which students can practice all university languages together in teams and win a prize.

Long Night of Writing

This event is usually organized together with the Learning Centre to support and motivate students to finish their assignment in time. Students can simply write on their own and enjoy the busy atmosphere, or they can participate in our writing marathon and get support from peer tutors or librarians on the spot.

When: dates will be announced at the beginning of the semester

Where: Belval campus, Learning Centre, or online

Registration: via Moodle - Language Centre

4. Language Tandem

The Language Centre supports students and staff to find a tandem partner for language learning. In a language tandem partnership, one offers her own language skills, and in exchange get the chance to learn the language the tandem partner speaks.

Registration:

https://www.en.uni.lu/university_of_luxembourg_language_centre_ullc/tandem_learning

5. Free online resources

The language centre offers a free collection of online learning resources for English, French, German, and Luxembourgish.

https://wwwen.uni.lu/university_of_luxembourg_language_centre_ullc/independent_learning/online_resources2

6. Language offer within the UNIVERSEH alliance

The University of Luxembourg Language Centre is part of the UNIVERSEH alliance. The alliance offers a range of language courses and activities (also intensive courses) to improve English, French, German, Swedish and Polish language skills. All University of Luxembourg students can participate for free.

Have a look:

<https://www.studierendenakademie.hhu.de/universeh>

For more information please see:

The University of Luxembourg Language Centre website:

https://wwwen.uni.lu/university_of_luxembourg_language_centre_ullc

Or contact:

languagecentre@uni.lu